HAZARDS

TO the expert the hazards in a church tower are bad enough and all come in a day's work, but to the inexperienced they can be very serious, especially in old towers.

Access to the bell chamber can either be by stone spiral staircase or wooden ladders—in some cases a combination of both. The chief hazard of an old stone staircase is the worn condition of the treads, especially if the staircase is dimly lit. Little or no toe hold is left, consequently climbing is difficult. Descending is more dicey as the foot is liable to slide; then one goes helter-skelter to the bottom. There are occasions when an accumulation of sticks brought in by birds covers the treads, and it is possible for the sticks to move under one's weight and so you skid to the bottom. In towers constructed of friable stone a thick layer of stone dust can hide deep cavities in the treads, so here again is a risk of shooting down.

With wooden ladders a broken rung can have nasty consequences. There are many that have worm in the rungs, so when climbing a ladder always place the foot close to the sides; even this is no guarantee a rung will not snap—if a rung does break the chances are the lower rungs will break as you drop. The sides of ladders are not immune from weakness, and these have been known to snap when least expected. No matter how strong a ladder may appear to be, never have more than one person on at a time.

Having reached the bell chamber, one's troubles are not over: the floorboards can be deceptive. When there is advanced decay in them the danger is obvious, but more often than not the danger is not so obvious, and it is not a pleasant feeling when boards give way and one 'is going down to the clock department,' as I know from bitter experience. Again, sticks brought in by birds can hide the weak places in the floor. In a strange tower try and note where the floor supports are and put your feet over those. Unguarded clock weight shafts must be regarded as man-traps, as more often than not they are placed in dark corners.

A rare hazard can be the material used to fill the bell chamber windows. I have reason to remember St. Peter's, Ashton-under-Lyne, when the bells were hung in the upper stage of the tower. The window openings were filled with cast iron filigree which looked all right, and when I was inspecting the bells had occasion to put my hand on the cast ironwork in the windows. To my consternation this ironwork collapsed and fell outwards. I shall never forget the look on the late Mr. Wolstencroft's face when he realised what might have happened. Afterwards he told me that often he had steadied himself by putting his hands on the ironwork. The old wooden frame was a double-decker, smothered in old grease, which provided another hazard, for it is so easy to skid on the grease-covered timbers.

Finally, there is the obvious danger of moving about a bell frame with a bell or bells 'on set.' A bell can be pushed over accidentally or it could be 'pulled off' by someone who is not aware you are up amongst the bells. If you must 'mess about with bells,' make sure others know.

The dangers are bad enough in the daytime but are much worse at night, especially if adequate lighting is not provided. So if in doubt, keep out.

JOHN P. FIDLER.

RINGING FOR INDUCTION

A CONSIDERABLE amount of ringing welcomed the Rev. Peter T. Robbins, M.A., and Mrs. Robbins to their new living of the combined benefice of Charing with Little Chart. A peal in four Minor methods was rung at Charing on the morning of November 2nd. The same afternoon the local ringers rang for the service of institution and induction at Charing, while another peal in seven Doubles methods was rung at Little Chart. The following evening both Mr. and Mrs. Robbins stood in with the local band for the service ringing for the induction at Little Chart, the new Rector himself conducting the touch of Grandsire Doubles.

The peal at Charing was not achieved without difficulty. It caused the conductor some anxious moments, and the tenor rope broke the following day. But the peal at Little Chart went with such clockwork precision that the new tenor-queen was in danger of nodding off. Nigel Fright, aged 15, of Ashford, had the distinction of ringing his first two peals on the same day, and Peter Richardson, of Willesborough, doubled his total, also by ringing twice.

Although both churches are combined in the same benefice, and both have six bells, they are otherwise very different. Charing (13 cwt.) is one of the 15 original founder-towers of the Kent County Association and, administratively, comes under the Maidstone District. The beautiful old church overlooks the busy A20 road, and stands at the foot of the North Downs beside the great mediæval barn which was once the banqueting hall of the Bishop's Palace, where came Henry VIII and Elizabeth I. The tiny hamlet of Little Chart lies well off the beaten track. The new church is characterised by lines of architectural simplicity, and was dedicated in September, 1956. The bells (6½ cwt.) were recast from the bells of the original church, which stood some distance away and was destroyed by enemy action during the war. It comes under the Ashford District, so the newcomers have, as it were, a foot in both camps.

Mrs. Robbins is the daughter of Mr. George Spice, former hon. secretary and present vice-president of the Association, and has conducted peals on tower- and handbells. As the bands of both Charing and Little Chart have suffered losses and setbacks during the past year, the advent of two such distinguished ringers as the Rev. and Mrs. Robbins is a very great encouragement to them. TEACHING WASHINGTON TO RING

AN ARTIST'S IMPRESSION OF THE NEW CATHEDRAL.

By HARRY PARKES

YOUR readers may be interested in an account of my trip to Washington to install the new ring of ten at the National Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul.

I left London Airport on Tuesday, October 1st, at 12 noon, and owing to high winds in the South Atlantic we were routed via Prestwick, Iceland, the Labrador and New England coasts to New York and Washington, arriving at 6.10 p.m. Western Time. The assistant clerk of the works, Mr. Fanfani, met me at the airport and took me to my accommodation.

On Wednesday I was shown around, and introduced to Dean Sayre, and the Cathedral architect, Mr. Frohman, also members of the various firms of contractors with whom I was to work. I also met again Mr. Feller, clerk of the works, Mr. Dirksen, associate organist of the Cathedral, who is in charge of the ringing, and Mr. Barnes, the carillonneur. I had previously met these gentlemen during their visit to the Whitechapel Foundry to see the bells earlier in the year.

The Cathedral is a fine building, and when finished will be not unlike our Canterbury, although it is by no means a copy.

The bells hang in the central tower, above the Taylor carillon, and as the belfry is about 40 feet square, a circular frame was employed similar to Liverpool's, but constructed in steel, and bolted down to an insulated concrete ring.

On Saturday, I was introduced to 20 or 25 prospective ringers, but as soon as some of the bells were hung and instruction could start, this number rapidly increased until finally there were over 40 people clamouring to be taught. This presented a problem, and finally my stay was extended for two weeks to cope with the rush. Eventually, I was taking two an hour from 2 p.m. to 9.30 or 10 at night, with a break for a meal at 6 p.m.

On October 19th and 20th, six boys from Groton with Mr. Russell Young came to try out the bells and enable tests to be carried out on the tower. They were joined by Mr. Warren Sturgis from New York, whose family gave the fourth, and 'out of the blue' Mr. Philip Gray from Bristol, who was in the States on business. During the tests two or my pupils were far enough advanced to join in and we rang round on the ten.

Everything was pronounced in order, and during the following days I returned to teaching with renewed zest as I wanted to hear ten of my pupils ring rounds before I left.

Finally, Saturday, November 2nd, the day of my departure, arrived, and in the morning all the pupils assembled in the belfry for a final session, and it gave me great pleasure to hear rounds on the ten as good as some I have heard over here, and we finished up with four of them and myself ringing Stedman Doubles on handbells.

I was seen off to the airport by Mr. Dirksen, who on behalf of all the learners gave me a presentation and a letter which I was able to read as soon as we took off. I was deeply touched by this letter, and lost for words, and I hope they will understand if I just say 'Thank you all most sincerely.'

I flew to Buffalo for the week-end and achieved a long ambition to see Niagara Falls.

On Monday, November 4th, I went to Kent School, Connecticut, to check up their bells, and was once again made most welcome. Leaving there on Wednesday for New York I was presented with a very fine book on the history of the school.

Thursday, November 7th, saw me aboard a T.W.A. jet airliner for London, where I arrived at 7.30 the following morning, after a pleasant journey, during which a film show made the 64 hour crossing seem even shorter.

To conclude, I had a most enjoyable trip, met a lot of very nice people and made a lot of friends. I offer my sincere thanks to all for their hospitality and to my employers, for their trust and for giving me the opportunity of seeing the U.S.A. once again.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Wareham, where the Northern District met on November 9th, was a very popular meeting. Despite the crowd that overflowed into the churchyard George Francis, who was in charge, ensured that everyone had a ring. The service included a warm welcome from the Vicar (the Rev. M. R. Newman), and this was followed by a good tea in the Village Hall.

The Master (Mr. Reg Johnson), who presided, expressed sorrow at the illness of Mrs. Hairs (honorary secretary) and wished her a speedy recovery. Mr. George Jennings was acting secretary. The vote of thanks from the choir included the Vicar, organist and Warnham band for the splendid arrangements, December meeting: Hartfield.

More ringing followed until 7.30 p.m., when a happy and cheerful social was enjoyed until 10 p.m. G. T. J.

OFFER OF GUILD CHURCH TO LEICESTER GUILD

THE Annual Dinner and Social of the Leicester Diocesan Guild was held at the Shakespeare Hotel, Braunstone, Leicester, on November 2nd.

During the afternoon the bells of the city churches were available for general ringing and good use was made of them.

Supporting Mr. F. K. Measures (president) and Mrs. Measures on the top table were Mr. B. S. Payne (vice-president) and Mrs. Payne; Mr. P. L. Taylor (vice-president), Mrs. Taylor and their daughters; Mr. J. A. Acres (peal secretary); Mr. P. J. Staniforth (Central Council representative) and Mrs. Staniforth; Mr. S. Burton (Central Council representative) and Mrs. Burton; Mr. J. M. Jelley (Central Council representative) and Miss Monica Moore; and Mr. B. G. Warwick (general secretary); together with the guests for the evening the Archdeacon of Loughborough (the Ven. Dr. H. Lockley) and Mrs. Lockley.

Proposing the toast 'The Leicester Diocesan Guild' the Archdeacon outlined his connections with ringing. He commenced his ministry as curate of All Saints, Loughborough, where the names of the Taylor family became well-known to him; then he became Vicar of St. Thomas', South Wigston, where the record peal of Double Norwich was rung on December 27th, 1904, and is recorded on a tablet in the porch; and now, in addition to being Archdeacon of Loughborough, he had also become Vicar of All Saints, Leicester, which was associated with the bell foundry of Newcombe and Watts. This is a 'down-town' parish with very little Sunday congregation and the Archdeacon made the generous offer to the Guild that they might care to consider All Saints' as the Guild Church. He reminded the gathering of their calling in ringing for Divine Service and concluded by congratulating the members of the Guild who had successfully rung the record peal of Plain Bob Major at Loughborough earlier in the year.

Following the toast a 3-course of Cambridge Surprise Royal was rung on handbells by: John A. Acres 1-2, Mrs. P. J. Staniforth 3-4, P. J. Staniforth 5-6, J. M. Jelley 7-8 and R. B. Smith 9-10.

HANDBELL TRADITION MAINTAINED

The President (Mr. F. K. Measures) in his reply, apologised for the absence of Mr. C. Harrison (trustee) who had been seriously ill; and of Mr. J. P. Fidler (trustee), whose wife was ill. He thought that whereas the attendances at district meetings had dropped in some cases, the attendances at general meetings had increased. He congratulated the handbell band, under the conductorship of Mr. P. J. Staniforth, who were ringing peals of Surprise and reminded the gathering that they were carrying on the tradition laid down by the founder-president of the Guild, the late Mr. H. J. Poole. He also congratulated members of the Guild on ringing the extent of Plain Bob Major and was glad the conductor of the peal was present.

The toast 'The Guests and Visitors' was proposed by Mrs. P. J. Staniforth. History was being made as this was the first time that a lady had made a speech at a Leicester Guild dinner. Referring to Lord Denning's impromptu speech she was going to read hers! After acknowledging the honour in being the first lady to make a speech she welcomed all guests and visitors to the dinner.

On behalf of the guests and visitors, Mr. R. B. Smith (conductor of the extent of Bob Major) suitably replied.

The duties of toastmaster were ably carried out by Mr. B. S. Payne (vice-president) who then called on his fellow vice-president (Mr. P. L. Taylor), who gave a brief description of his American tour.

A prize draw in aid of the Bell Repair Fund was organised by a sub-committee (Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Staniforth, Messrs. J. M. Jelley, J. Adams and J. M. Jelley). This resulted in £164 13s. being realised for the fund.

A competition run by Mr. J. M. Jelley and Miss Monica Moore to guess the number of prize draw tickets sold brought in £3 9s. 6d. towards defraying the general expenses of the dinner.

POPULARITY OF ESSEX ASSOCIATION DINNER

OVER the ten years since the Essex Association inaugurated its annual dinner the event has grown in popularity and this year at the Saracen's Head Hotel, Chelmsford, on November 9th, there was a record attendance of 135 which necessitated an overflow into the restaurant.

Supporting the Master (Mr. R. C. Heazel) at the top table were the Archdeacon of Southend (the Ven. W. N. Welch), the Provost (the Very Rev. G. E. Gordon), and Canon J. H. Barrow. The guest of honour was Mr. Paul Taylor of the Loughborough foundry.

The toast of 'The Church' was proposed by the Master, and the response was by the Archdeacon.

'Bells and Ringers of Essex' was proposed in a series of amusing anecdotes by Mr. Paul Taylor and Canon Barrow replied by outlining briefly the history of the Cathedral bells. This year is the Jubilee of the installation of the twelve at the Cathedral and in jocular vein the Canon assured the company that as far as he could remember Warner's estimate was sixpence lower than Taylor's!! Canon Barrow, of course, was largely responsible for the installation of the twelve when £1,300 was raised in four days and a 48-page programme was produced for 6d. a copy.

'Life Members, Guests and Artistes' was proposed by Mr. L. J. Clark, life vice-president. It is the custom of the Association to honour the life members elected during the current year by making them the guests of the Association for the evening. Present were Messrs. A. W. Beard (Barking), E. E. Holman (Walthamstow), H. Shadrack (Springfield) and J. Sitch (Brentwood). Messrs. C. Mansfield (Nazeing) and F. C. Taylor, of Walthamstow, were unable to be present.

In a humorous reply the Provost thanked the Association, especially for their efforts during the Cathedral Festival Week. He lamented the failure yet again of the peal attempt for Stedman Cinques and ventured the opinion that it ought to be called 'Stedman Stinks'!!

Excellent entertainment was provided by Ann Randall (songs with guitar), Robert Lindsell and Richard Webb (instrumental duets) with some excellent tune ringing by Messrs. J. Brandon, H. Egglestone and A. Hendron.

Altogether, a most pleasant and enjoyable evening was had by all.

50 YEARS AGO

R.W. November 21st. 1913.—

The Cambridge Youths can claim to be one of the oldest of our ringing societies, but it was not until a week or so ago that they rang Cambridge Surprise. The first performance in this method was at Old Chesterton, when 720 Cambridge Minor was rung by W. B. Kempton 1, F. Dench 2, A. Wilkerson 3, T. R. Dennis 4, F. E. Kempton 5, W. D. James (conductor) 6. This is another evidence of the revival of this ancient society, which is now being brought about.

AUBREY'S EVENING

Mr. A. L. Bennett, of Buckfastleigh, organised one of his evening excursions on October 24th. Towers visited were East Allington (6), Halwell, where the six bells had not been rung for months, and there were signs of neglect, and finally Harberton, where Mr. H. J. Narramore, captain of Totnes ringers, rang the tenor behind in excellent style for Doubles. Thanks are due to Mr. Bennett for providing such an enjoyable evening for the visitors and getting everything in readiness.

LEICESTER DIOCESAN GUILD Quarterly Meeting

The third quarterly meeting for 1963 was held by rotation in the Leicester District on October 19th.

During the afternoon ringing was available at three towers. First the five at Peatling Parva, a village with a population of 70, and yet possessing one of the best kept churches and churchyards in the diocese. The bells are seldom rung, but are chimed every Sunday by a churchwarden, who uses the Ellacombe system. They are of quite good tone, but the fourth and tenor need to be rung by able-bodied men!

Next came the recently restored octave at Lutterworth, where John Wycliff was once Rector. The bells have just been rehung on ball bearings and were rededicated by the Bishop of Leicester on October 25th. Mr. Ernest W. Tipler, the famous Leicestershire composer, lives close to the church, and it was a great pleasure for the president and secretary of the Guild to visit him. Unfortunately, he is unable to ring at present, but hopes to do so before long. Our visit cheered him greatly and so did the touch of Stedman Triples rung on his beloved bells.

Finally came the good-toned octave at Gilmorton, where the Rector (the Rev. Dr. H. L. McDonald-Liegeois) is an honorary member. The service was held here, and the Rector preached. Tea followed in the Village Hall, ably served for the 60 members and friends by the Ringing Master (Mr. George Broughton) and his helpers. Gilmorton is rather 'off the beaten track' and this was the largest number they had ever known at a ringing meeting.

At the business meeting, the president (Mr. F. K. Measures) apologised for the absence of the two vice-presidents (Mr. B. S. Payne and Mr. P. L. Taylor), and referred to the passing of Mr. W. Hector, of Market Harborough, one of the few survivors of Mr. C. Arthur Manning's band of pre-war days. The meeting stood in silence to his memory. Visitors welcomed were the Rev. M. C. C. Melville (Clifton) and Mr. J. Pickup (Accrington).

Certificates of membership were presented by the president to new members, after which the minutes of the previous meeting were approved.

The election of the following new members was confirmed on the proposition of Mr. B. C. Law, seconded by Mr. R. K. Mason: John C. Eisel, John Robinson, Juliet F. Block (Leicester University), Susanna Poppleston (Nottingham), John E. Stacey (Maidenhead), Mary Barrass, Pat Farmer (Shepshed) and Marie Pickering (Thurlaston).

In any other business, Mr. S. Harrison deplored the fact that at the previous meeting at Barwell a group of ringers had been talking in the porch during Evensong.

Next quarterly meeting: Loughborough District, February 8th: A.G.M., April 4th, with Evensong at Leicester Cathedral, preacher new Provost.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD Bingham District

About 70 ringers attended during the afternoon and evening at the Bingham District meeting at Holme Pierrepont. The padre, the Rector of Cotgrave, conducted the service, and tea was in the hall by permission of Lady Sybil Argles. Collection for Bell Repair Fund amounted to £1 5s.

CHELMSFORD CATHEDRAL FESTIVAL

The festival commenced on Saturday, October 19th, by a service, at which the massed choirs from many parishes sang hymns and anthems. This was preceded by ringing of the bells by a band drawn from the North-Western District of the Essex Association. Sunday was the day of the county Harvest Festival, when the bells were rung by the Cathedral band.

On Monday, before a lecture on music, given by Miss Isobel Baillie, supported by the Cathedral organist, Mr. Philip Ledger, 1,277 Grandsire Caters was rung by the Cathedral band: J. E. G. Roast 1, Janet Groves 2, M. J. Cowling 3, P. Saltmarsh 4, L. J. Clark (cond.) 5, R. Harrison 6, A. R. Groves 7, R. Pantom 8, D. A. S. Symonds 9, P. Eves 10.

On Tuesday, before a recital by the Purcell Singers, the bells were rung by the Northern District.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the drama, 'Murder in the Cathedral,' was presented by the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. On Wednesday, the South-Western District rang 1,299 Stedman Caters: A. J. Boyack 1, H. Turner 2, J. Crampin (cond.) 3, M. Austin 4, M. Hallett 5, D. Hewitt 6, R. Cousins 7, D. Cobb 8, J. Waugh 9, A. Howe 10.

On Thursday, the South-Eastern District rang 1,277 Grandsire Caters: E. W. Roast 1, T. R. Roast 2, P. G. Brown 3, M. J. Cowling 4, M. J. Edwards 5, P. W. Saltmarsh 6, D. A. S. Symonds 7, I. R. Pantom 8, P. J. Eves (cond.) 9, J. P. Crawley 10.

On Saturday, preceding a recital given by Mary Wells (soprano), with the choir of King Edward School, the North-Eastern District rang 1,320 Kent Treble Bob Royal: Randall Orman 1, George Orman 2, Richard Harrison 3, Adrian Semkin 4, George Bullen 5, Alfred E. Honeywood 6, Frank B. Lufkin (cond.) 7, Maurice Downs 8, Edward Davey 9, Harry Millett 10.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Ringing was of a good standard at a meeting of the Biggleswade District ringers, held at Stotfold on November 9th, with Mr. P. Mehew as Ringing Master.

The Rev. J. W. H. Bullock conducted a short service, and Miss A. Alexander played the organ. Ringers then adjourned to the school for tea, which had been prepared by Misses A. Alexander, V. Rix and Mrs. Alexander.

The Vicar presided at the business meeting, when it was decided to hold the December meeting at Meppershall and Shillington. Ringing was resumed and a few more visitors arrived, among them Mr. T. Price, of Sunbury, who rang the treble and the second to an excellent course of London Surprise.

Trouble at St. Neots

Dear Sir.—Readers will wonder what the trouble has been at St. Neots, Huntingdonshire, which has been aired in the press and by the B.B.C. The facts are that the band were all young people, most of whom were still learning, with about six able to ring rounds and call changes. They were keen for some time, but latterly slackness had crept in, practices had fallen off through non-attendance, and a bad habit had been developing of leaving the church after ringing for services instead of staying to worship.

With the Vicar's consent, a band to ring a quarter peal of Bob Major before the week-night harvest thanksgiving service was arranged. Those ringing were all friends of the local band, including three experienced ringers from neighbouring towers, who had frequently visited our church during practices to help us, one of whom had given much time to teaching us week by week until attendances fell off. The conductor of the quarter peal was the Rev. Giles Galley, who was preaching that evening. He is the Vicar's son and learnt to ring at St. Neots as a boy, had been one of the ringers here, often during his holidays he joined us, and had taught some to ring. Only one of our band was competent to ring a quarter peal of Bob Major besides myself. He was asked to ring on this occasion, but had another engagement.

Some of the others took exception, especially one who had given himself out as captain. No captain of ringers had in fact been appointed for none was suitable or qualified. After this most of the ringers stayed away from church. Canon Galley therefore called a meeting to go into the trouble. He made it clear that ringers must attend practices and were, generally speaking, expected to attend service after ringing. They objected and it appears from what has been published that except for one or two they have given up. We did not agree with them. No resignations have actually been sent to the Vicar. Their attitude is quite unreasonable and they seem to have used the quarter peal as an excuse, having really lost interest as one of them said. Already some recruits have been found and have started learning, and other have promised to come.

I am one of the ringers who has not resigned.—Yours sincerely,

GEORGE E. BONHAM.

St. Neots, Hunts.

Tewkesbury Abbey Incident

Dear Sir.—The members of the Tewkesbury Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association are sorry to learn that the Misses P. and V. Stephens consider them to me discourteous.

The meeting held at Tewkesbury Abbey on October 26th was well attended, both by members and friends, and by several visitors, who were previously unknown to us; and, to the best of our belief, everybody who wished to ring did so.

It being Saturday, however, there were the usual hordes of trippers going to the tower to admire the view from the top. The door to the ringing chamber being open to admit ringers, attracted many of these trippers, who would gaze at us, as at a circus act, then go on their way. This is a usual occurrence, and over the years one becomes accustomed to being regarded somewhat as a performing animal, and takes no notice.

Could it be that the Misses Stephens were the two young women in trousers, who came through the door way, sat down on the step, watched for a few minutes and then went away again? If so, seeing that they showed no intention of coming right into the ringing chamber, or of speaking to or even smiling at any of the assembled company—and considering the way they were dressed—we can hardly be blamed for mistaking them for just another two trippers. Surely if one wishes to ring in a strange tower the usual procedure is to approach the person in charge (who is not usually difficult to pick out) and introduce oneself—as, in fact, all our other visitors that afternoon did.

Finally, as a member of the Tewkesbury Abbey band, may I say that we are always pleased to welcome visiting ringers to the Abbey. The pages of our visitors' book will testify to this.—Yours faithfully,

NADINE PRICE.

Handbells in Public

Dear Sir.—Reading the front page of 'The Ringing World' of November 8th, brought back memories of a certain Association's tour this summer. It was on the return journey from a day in the Isle of Wight that some of the party decided to ring real handbells, not just thumbs. There they were swaying merrily with the boat while tourists of varying nationality looked on in wonder (or was it horror?). We thought it was a gorgeous sound on the water, but the passengers for some strange reason seemed to differ. After they thought the chap called Bob was deaf, and started to shout about dodges and call singles, they cleared off completely, and we had a whole deck to ourselves, while the other end and down below were by this time packed to capacity. So if you should go to the Isle of Wight any time, don't forget your handbells.—Yours faithfully,

TOM THUMB.

DELAYED IN TRANSIT

Through 'Ringing Worlds' put on the train at Guildford being lost at Waterloo, Rolls House Publishing Company were delayed in despatch of last week's copies to newsgagents. To readers concerned, we assure them that the fault was not with our publishers, who spent hours searching and phoning, or with the printers, and were only found at 6 p.m. Representations have been made to British Railways.

Mr. C. W. Woolley Corrected

Dear Sir.—It is with some trepidation that I trespass upon a private war, but I feel sure that Mr. C. W. Woolley will not mind if I correct him; a service he often performed for me.

He says, rather ingenuously I thought, that by using 'Calls at Home' the 'tenors would not be parted.' I think he has forgotten, in spite of his sojourn in the backwoods of Yorkshire and his enforced though I hope profitable and not unhappy contact with barbarians who eat raw meat and ring close leads and irregular methods, that in the latter the tenors are parted even in the plain course and that the coursing order, which is the life-blood of ringers and conductors on higher numbers, is of so little value when ringing such methods that Minor ringers never bother about it.

And were they 'very easy to keep right'?

I suspect that Mr. Woolley would discover that it is much easier for him to correct a 'mix-up' in, say, Bristol Surprise Major than to sort out a corresponding one in, say, Violet or Duke of York, and that only a conductor with expert knowledge would be able to decide whether the bells were once again in their correct position.

Many of the methods rung in these peals were, of course, 'irregular.' Of the 14 360's rung in a peal at Cawthorne in 1883, 11 were irregular. In a peal of 6,000 changes at Tong, peal at Saddleworth the same year 10 were irregular. In a peal of 6,000 changes at Tong, also in 1883, there were 25 240's each in a different methods, of which 20 were irregular.

Whether the conductors of Yorkshire were 'less enterprising' is a moot point. The conductor of the Tong peal, George Bolland, well known as 'The Minor King,' was no less at home as a ringer and conductor of Major, as is evident from the Yorkshire Association reports of that period.

I know, of course, as little about Dr. Carpenter's personality and debating powers as does Mr. Woolley, but I read into Dr. Carpenter's suggestion that Minor ringers should ring 14 720's if they wanted to ring 14 methods, a touch of that offhand superciliousness occasionally displayed by ringers on higher numbers towards 6-bell ringers.

There was no need to say what he did, and it would have been more to his credit if it had remained unsaid. I wonder what advice he would have offered to the Tong members?

The only reason that 'in this debate Dr. Carpenter was on the winning side' had nothing to do with his powers of persuasion, but because a way was found of placing more than one method into a 720 without repetition of rows. If method splicing had not been discovered peals of Minor in 360's, 240's or even plain courses would have continued.

I know because I should have rung in some of them!—Yours etc.,

Ryhill, Wakefield. HAROLD CHANT.

Leeds, Kent

Dear Sir.—Briefly, in reply to Mr. Fry's protests on '3, 4, 5,' etc. As to 'anonymity'—merely a simple desire not to bore 99 per cent of the Exercise to whom we are unknown anyway.

To straighten him out on other points. Nothing whatsoever was said as to neglect of the tower: comment was on the unfortunate state of a very historic peal board.

If funds are wanted, then charge a fee. Gravesend does, Pershore Abbey does: doubtless others, too. We are all in favour.

Ninth and tenor we are quite capable of managing: their vagaries are mild indeed. Minchampton, Glos. E. CRIBLEY.

A Barnsley Opinion

Dear Sir,—May I comment on the observations of Mr. Woolley on peals of Minor rung in 14 methods in 360's; he states that the tenor would need only to call 3 bobs at Home for a 360; this is his first error because plain methods were seldom if ever rung in these peals and second place methods were not greatly used so bobs at Home would not produce a 360. He then states that this calling would keep the tenors together; this of course would not be true for in many of the methods such as Duke of York the tenors do not course, so to state that the conductor would have an easy task is again quite wrong. Furthermore to say that a conductor had no need to learn the calling of a 720 to be able to conduct these peals of 360's is a joke which even we in Barnsley can appreciate.

A peal in 14 different methods, each of 360 changes, was rung at Cawthorne in 1883 by a team of ringers, local working lads mostly in their teens, and the methods were: Primrose, College Treble, Tulip, College Exercise, Duke of Leeds, Darton Victory, London Scholars, College Pleasure, City Delight, Arnold's Victory, Duke of York, New London Pleasure, Oxford and Violet; to me this was a fine performance, greater than many of the peals I have rung in even more than 14 methods. These ringers intended to emulate this feat by ringing 21 methods in 240's but I have not found any record of it having been rung. Possibly the conductor fell asleep through boredom!

The Central Council should never have attempted to damp the enthusiasm of the multi-minor method ringers by condemning such peals until some form of splicing had been perfected. However they supported the 'brilliant scheme' of Bankes James which enabled a peal to be rung in ONE method in round blocks; this certainly was enterprise! I would rather ring a peal in 14 360's than the Bankes James thing; in fact we may repeat the peal of 80 years ago just to see how 'easy' it is.

Mr. Woolley concludes his letter stating that Dr. Carpenter was on the winning side of the debate. Of course he was; six bell ringing is known as MINOR and is therefore in a minority every time. I am surprised we are permitted to ring peals of Minor for a prominent member of the Central Council once stated that there could not be any such peals because 5,000 different changes of Minor could not be obtained.

Regarding the 'bitterness' of my previous letter I am certainly not bitter but I was reminded of a front page article in 'The Ringing World' some years ago when E.C.S. admonished wayward Minor ringers in the manner of a magistrate addressing juvenile apple stealers.—Yours faithfully,

N. F. MOXON.

P.S.—Perhaps you were right, Mr. Woolley. I see naive means simple to the point of foolishness.—N.F.M.

TRIBUTES TO A GREAT LONDON RINGER

MR. T. H. TAFFENDER, I.S.O.

The senior Past Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths, which he joined in 1893; a member of St. Paul's Cathedral company for over 60 years (he rang a peal at St. Paul's Cathedral in 1898); an officer of the London County Association, which he joined in 1895, for 68 years and Master for 50 years; these are some of the unique achievements of Thomas H. Taffender, a famous ringer, who passed from us on October 18th.

About 20 ringers attended his funeral service at St. Leonard's, Streatham, and most of these followed the cortege to Streatham Vale Cemetery. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the coffin by H. W. Rogers 1—2, W. G. Wilson 3—4, A. D. Barker 5—6 and W. D. Grainger 7—8. Half-muffled ringing took place at Streatham, Waterloo and Isleworth. Later 'in memoriam' peals were rung at Beddington (London Surprise Royal) and Isleworth (Stedman Caters, using as a composition one which T. H. T. had called many times, John Carter's 5.030).

Among Mr. Taffender's early peals for the London County Association were:

February 25th, 1895, first for St. James' Society;

February 4th, 1905, memorial peal to his father at St. Stephen's, Coleman Street;

May 14th, 1905, 'Thomas' peal of Stedman Caters at St. Magnus-the-Martyr, Thames Street, City;

September 22nd, 1906, his wedding peal at St. Clement Danes'.

Peals of which he was particularly proud were several of Stedman Triples at St. George-the-Martyr, Southwark, where he had taught the band from scratch, and where he called some intricate compositions, including Carter's Odd Bob. In addition to instructing bands and running the ringing at this tower, he did similar service at St. Dunstan-in-the-East, St. Giles', Camberwell, St. Mary's, Lambeth, and others.

It is hoped to publish an analysis of Mr. Taffender's peals, shortly. H. W. R.

A FURTHER APPRECIATION

In all ages, art and science have had their great exponents. Various campaigns have had their prominent leaders and there has been always a following for such as could remove 'the veil from seeming mystery that knowledge might be given to their fellow men,' as J. M. Routh said of Jasper Snowdon. It is 40 years ago since the Master, as I will speak of him, taught me to handle a bell in the steeple of St. Giles', Camberwell, my introduction having been brought about by his son, Wilfred, with whom I spent some years at school.

In those 40 years I saw T. H. Taffender as an exponent of the science of no mean ability. I saw him again as a leader. I saw in him one possessing great knowledge of the subject, and also of the ready willingness to assist others in surmounting those same difficulties which he himself had experienced so long ago.

In all pursuits, whatever their direction, lies the seed of enlargement and progress. T. H. Taffender gave fully of that encouragement so necessary to the young ringer and conductor. Many a bob has been called for the first time with confidence gained from the Master, and experience has shown that wise indeed were those men of the London County Association who appointed him to that office which he was to discharge so admirably for over half a century.

I shall not forget his enthusiasm toward us when we were boys. After he had been to St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday mornings, he would join us at St. Magnus-the-Martyr in Billingsgate, where, with his help, we would ring Stedman Doubles for morning service. After 11 o'clock we would go with him to St. Dunstan-in-the-East for an hour's instruction on handbells where occasionally we were joined by the late Mr. W. A. Alps, formerly of Waltham Abbey, who then lived close by in Idol Lane.

Many years ago I recall him saying that his one ambition in the science was that he might leave it better than he found it. The testimony of my own experience is that he did just that. Of those who sought his help, failure was not often their portion. He would explain a difficulty as many times as it was necessary to make his knowledge our own and he led us in those early days from faltering steps in Stedman Doubles to frequent uncondemned quarter peals of Triples at Camberwell.

On the occasion of the annual thanksgiving for the harvest of the sea, held before the war at the Church of St. Dunstan-in-the-East, there would be always a quarter peal of London Surprise on Sunday evening at that church.

The Master believed firmly that those he taught should know something of 'what was going on upstairs.' He spent much time explaining the function of bell gear in general and equipped us with an ability to discern between what was and what ought to be. There was so much that I could tell of St. Mary Matfelon, Whitechapel, of Wallage's tea party, of Wilton Road, Pimlico, S.W., and of the handbell ringing at 10, Northlands Street.

For our first peals of Stedman Caters, Mr. Taffender would conduct a composition by John Cox, with the treble a fixed bell. Such were the things that he did to aid our first essay at a peal of Caters. His own first peal was rung at St. John's, Waterloo Road, on December 12th, 1893; significantly his last was also rung at that church on July 28th, 1956. Both were Stedman Triples.

A conductor of vast experience and I think of unparalleled ability and achievement, Stedman was pre-eminently his method. He never rang an observation bell, and invariably took the second rope. Indeed, I know of many of my oldest ringing friends who speak of the second as 'the Master's bell.' Whilst it is difficult indeed to realise that we shall not meet with him again in this life, there must be a great number who, like myself, will wish to perpetuate his memory.

It is my belief that no better way exists in which to do this than that there might be a wider sense of brotherhood amongst ringers generally. That we may never be unmindful of our true calling, which is to maintain Sunday service ringing, and in discharge of that high privilege let us not forget that nothing is good where better is possible.

W. D. GRAINGER.

THE band who rang a peal of Minor at Folkingham, Lincs, to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the rehanging of the bells by John Taylor and Co., are all, with the exception of Mr. J. H. Musson, over 60 years of age, two being in their 70's, one of whom is Mr. J. Lindsey, who rang his first peal at the first attempt. They have an aggregate of 387 years, five have been ringing for 50 years and Mr. Musson for 40. Four of the band learned to ring at Folkingham, and three of them are still Sunday service ringers.

Those in the photograph (left to right) are A. E. Scott, C. Wade, C. Wilkinson, J. Lindsey, C. T. H. Bradley (tower captain for 40 years), Canon F. R. Money (Rector) and J. H. Musson, of Silk Willoughby, who learned to ring at Folkingham.

Mr. C. T. H. Bradley, who rang the second in the anniversary peal, recalls the day the late Mr. J. W. Taylor came to inspect the bells in 1911. For the occasion he was allowed a day off from school: he harnessed his father's old grey cob and took the dog cart to Billingham Station to collect the visitor.

On arrival at 9.30 a.m. an elderly gentleman with a long grey beard stepped from the train, whom he discovered was head of the firm—Mr. Taylor, in person. On the three miles journey to Folkingham he was thrilled with the conversation—all about bells.

An estimate of £75 was received for rehanging the bells. The money was raised in two years and the work started in September, 1913, and completed for the harvest festival in October of the same year. Five lads in their early teens aspired to learn to ring, although they were not accepted at first by the older generation. However, they made progress until the outbreak of the 1914 war, when four of them enlisted in the Forces. All four returned and soon found their way to the belfry except Mr. J. Lindsey, who had to refrain owing to a war wound.

The ring was augmented to six in 1924 in time for Easter Sunday. The first peal was rung in July, 1924, and since then some 40 peals have been rung. In 1931 the first-ever peal in which a mother and daughter took part was accomplished with five Folkingham ringers. Another noteworthy peal was Spliced Surprise Minor in 32 methods, which was a record for many years.

MEMORIES OF 50 YEARS AGO

Dear Sir,—Looking back 50 years it seems quite a time since the five lads in Folkingham had a great ambition to become ringers, but alas! no one wanted them, let alone the trouble to teach them to handle a bell.

Nevertheless, determined to learn, matters were taken into their own hands by making their way to the belfry after discovering where the ancient sexton used to hide his belfry key. After ascending the 80 steps to the bells, a bell would have its clapper lashed and then learned to be raised in very gradual stages. Luckily for the intruders no mishaps occurred.

There was sometimes a price to be paid for this adventure, as the old sexton would be informed that some boys were up in the tower. He would then proceed to the church and take up his position outside the belfry door equipped with an ash plant walking stick, which he would use freely on the culprits as they made their exit.

We did eventually become recognised by the older ringers, if they were short in numbers. Nevertheless, we became ringers, if it was learning by the hard way. Very different in these days, when a beginner gets a pat on the back after his first lesson from his instructor, who says: 'You have done quite well for the first attempt; come back the same time next week.'—Yours sincerely,

C. T. H. BRADLEY.

Folkingham, Lincs.

WEDDING BELLS AT HARROW

The bells of St. Mary's Church, Harrow-on-the-Hill, were rung both before and after the service when Miss Jennifer Anne Reeve, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Reeve, of Harrow, married Mr. Christopher John Aldridge, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Aldridge, of Southgate, on September 7th. The service, with Holy Communion, was conducted by the Rev. Guy R. Whitcombe.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a classic designed full-length dress of heavy satin brocade with a short train, and her long veil was held in place by a satin band decorated with seed pearls. She carried a white bible with a spray of white gardenias and lilies of the valley. She was attended by three bridesmaids, Miss Bridget Knight (her cousin), Miss Pat Norris and Jane Reeve (four-year-old niece). Acting as best man was Mr. Reg Pike.

A reception for 60 guests was held at the Roxborough Hotel, after which the happy couple left for a honeymoon in Cornwall.

A peal to record the happy occasion was rung the previous Saturday at the church.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD Annual Dinner

The annual dinner of the Chester Guild was held on October 5th in Macclesfield and was preceded by a short service in the ancient parish church conducted by the Vicar, the Ven. Thomas Clarke, at which the Bishop of Stockport preached.

At the dinner which followed in the Town Hall some 160 sat down to an excellent meal. The loyal toast was honoured at the call of the Master, Mr. J. W. Clarke, and after a short interval Mr. R. C. H. Sibley proposed the traditional toast of 'Church and State,' with a most admirable speech. He referred to the ancient connection between the two and emphasised that in the forthcoming decisions on unity, not only the clergy but also the laity would be called upon to play their part. He looked forward to one Christian Church going forward hand in hand with the State and challengingly asked who or what could withstand this?

The Rev. W. E. Clarke, Rector of Gawsorth, in his acknowledgment, made a reference to the Bishop of Coventry's speech on morals and rejoiced that this country has been traditionally a Christian country. The Book of Common Prayer was the law of the land, he said, and we wish that the faith of our fathers should be preserved.

Archdeacon Clarke proposed the toast of 'The Chester Diocesan Guild' and said that he felt like Daniel in the lions' den, with the difference that the speech was after a meal. He said the Church recognised the service done by ringers, often unseen but none the less as valuable as that of the members of the Parochial Church Council. He realised that ringing was a pastime, but first and foremost it was a piece of service to God and His Church. This fact alone justified the need for practice meetings, etc. There were many unable to attend services who were reminded by the bells of the services and could take part in their own homes. He felt that the ringing of bells was one of the great characteristics of the Church. In his concluding remarks he referred to the magnificent ringers' jugs which his church possessed and also to the increasing number of lady ringers.

Mr. J. W. Clarke, Master of the Guild, briefly replied and expressed the thanks of the company to the Macclesfield Branch for the excellent arrangements made.

The floor was then cleared and dancing took place until 11.30.

OBITUARY

MR. R. HENRY HUTTON

For upwards of 60 years Mr. Robert Henry Hutton, of 126, Addison Road, Guildford, had been a ringer at Holy Trinity Church, Guildford, and his passing peacefully in his sleep on November 13th, at the age of 85, removes a link with ringing in Guildford going back to the Boer War. He recalled ringing for the relief of Mafeking, which went on all day, and the churchwarden sent a cask of beer into the belfry.

'Harry' was a contemporary of the late Mr. A. H. Pulling. They learned change ringing together and Harry probably rang 300 peals with A. H. P. in the days when Holy Trinity tower was at the height of its fame. A loyal servant of the belfry, through days of success and days of difficulty, he attended regularly for service ringing and practice. His name appears with great regularity in the Holy Trinity Society's peal book.

A staunch friend, with a ready wit, he will be remembered with affection by senior ringers of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. By trade he was a french polisher and decorator and had his own business. In all he did there was a pride of craftsmanship and this was also exemplified in his ringing and neat handling.

The funeral service was at St. Luke's Church, Guildford, last Monday, and in the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung to his memory.

CORRECTION

The date of the peal at Stretton Grandison (page 739) was October 11th, and not as published.

The first peal on the new Bow bells held particular significance for Mr. John Phillips. It was his 300th peal and he has now rung peals on all the London twelves—an enviable achievement.

The Diocese of Swansea and Brecon celebrated its 40th anniversary this year. The Guild came some years later. Correction to item on page 752.

The peals at Middleton Cheney and Hook Norton on October 26th were rung as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Willis, on the occasion of their silver wedding.

Mr. John Baldwin is programming the Manchester University Allas Computer to derive false course heads for Surprise Major methods. He has promised an article after Christmas.

Messrs. B. G. Warwick and J. W. Cotton (secretaries of Leicester Diocesan Guild and Midland Counties Guild respectively) rang their 200th peal together at the Bell Foundry, Loughborough, on October 28th.

The overwhelming hospitality of the local band at Eardisland and in particular Mr. Leslie Evans, for his great help both before and after the tour, is acknowledged by the Robert C. Kippin party. The report of their week, which started on August 31st, reached 'The Ringing World' this week.

Will the party who were disappointed in not being able to ring at Finedon, Northants. on November 2nd accept the apologies of the local band, and their regrets for any misunderstanding which may have occurred. Their donations are gratefully acknowledged, and they will be welcome to make a return visit, when the bells are restored.

Eight ringers from St. John's College, York, rang the bells of Ripon Cathedral prior to Leeds University Institute of Education's 16th annual service. A quarter peal on the front six was called round after 360 changes. After the service, assisted by Mr. E. Hudson, Cathedral Ringing Master and two ringers from Ripon Training College, the ten bells were rung.

BELFY GOSSIP

Harlow Common, Essex, ringers paid a 75th birthday compliment to their tower master, Mr. W. Wheeler, with a quarter peal of Stedman Triples on October 29th. Mr. Wheeler has been a ringer at Harlow Common since the bells were installed in 1905 and for two years previous to that he was learning handbells under the direction of the late Mr. G. Dent. For over 50 years he has been a member of the Essex Association, and he sprightly turns the tenor in to any method rung at Harlow Common.

October 2nd was a red letter day at the remote Warwickshire village of Salter Street, when on the five bells of St. Patrick's Church a quarter peal was rung by the keen young band who have been in training for the past 18 months. This was the first all-local quarter. The band thank all visitors for their support.

Miss Pamela M. Turner had her great chance when M. C. Faulkes broke his arm in a rugger match, played on the afternoon of the attempt for Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Holy Trinity, Kingston-upon-Hull. She stepped in at a few moments' notice and rang her first peal of Maximus. To M. C. F., best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Mr. W. Pitcher, Editor of 'Ringing Towers,' thanks those who kindly offered him copies of 'The Great Adventure.' One wrote that he lent his copy to a friend who refused to give it back. He suspected that as this friend was perpetually in debt he might try to 'flog it off' to Mr. Pitcher. If anyone of a certain name offered it... Mr. Pitcher concludes: 'He hadn't... but all I could say was some friend.'

A peal band arrived at St. George's, Colegate, Norwich, only to find that there was no power in the church. Evidently a bulldozer, removing the road surface, had also removed the electric cables and although these were supposed to have been repaired it did not appear to be the case. Undaunted, the band went ahead and rang the peal by the light of three candles. Comments afterwards—a nice quiet light, no eye strain or glare; we must do this again!

IMPROVING THE STANDARD

Sermon preached by the Rev. F. F. Rigby, Rector of Bromsberrow and Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, at Malmesbury on November 16th, 1963.

IN 'The Ringing World' of November 1st the weekly text was: 'For there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed; neither hid that shall not be known.' (Luke xii, 2.) Whether the chooser of these texts intends to make a comment on ringing or not, I do not know. Sometimes, however, as in this case, the texts are aptly chosen. The point that Jesus was making in this statement was simply that the truth about all that we do will be known some time—if not to men in this life, then to men when we meet before God.

I have in my parish a children's music group; we play and sing together. At the Harvest Thanksgiving a few weeks ago we sang and played a harvest carol. Now we are practising Christmas carols, for we have a number of engagements to fulfil. Though we have been practising for Christmas for many months, we know that we shall have to work hard to be on top of our form. Until Christmas, we shall not be heard in public, for we know that between now and then we shall make many mistakes which will have to be corrected. But we hope by Christmas that we shall have something worth listening to. Our rule is simple: plenty of hard work during our months of practice; then we hope to be good enough to be heard in public.

This, of course, is true of any music group. We must all have listened to a final performance given by a music group which has given us much pleasure. Before such a performance there will have been much practice in private. After that, the members of the public are allowed to listen if they so choose. Usually, they have to pay for the pleasure of doing so.

With church bell ringing it is different. Our practices are held in public for all to hear; and what we may call our final performances, such as Sunday service ringing and peals, are also held in public. Tickets don't have to be bought by those who listen to us; those members of the public who happen to live near have to listen to both our practices and performances, whether they want to or not. This poses ringers with a difficulty to which I see no easy solution. I think it is a pity that the public have to listen to our mistakes during a practice, for then they get a totally wrong impression of what good ringing should be like.

This brings me to the point I want to make: as we have to practise in public and as we thrust upon our audience ringing which may be good but is often bad, we should try to raise our standards. If, as we often do, we dare to speak of the music of the bells, then we must set ourselves the same standards as other musicians. A musician in an orchestra knows if his playing is not up to standard, or if he does not he will be told. A ringer should also be able to recognise faulty rhythm, which he can do only by developing the skill of listening to the ringing as a whole.

What then can we do about improving the standard of our ringing on practice nights so that our public performances on Sundays and in peals will also be improved? I have said it and written it hundreds of times and shall continue doing so. Good method ringing is learned as much in the home as in the tower. It just will not do for ringers to think they can learn a new method in the tower without having first of all sweated it out at home, pencil in hand, paper before them and brains ticking over intelligently. This is the sort of practice we can all do in the privacy of our own homes before we do our necessary practice in public. It is also possible to think about a method at all sorts of odd moments; how to tell, for example, whether to go in slow or quick in Stedman. This sort of approach to ringing would develop our ringing memories and we should then not make so many mistakes in public.

What of our public performances, our peals, for example? I am satisfied that not all peals recorded in 'The Ringing World' ought to appear. I can think of one of my own so recorded but which does not appear in my own peal book. It was supposed to have been a peal consisting of seven extents of Minor. Now, I may be a bit dim-witted mathematically, but I do know that if the ringing has been at the rate of an extent in about 25 minutes, one of the extents can't be rung in a quarter-of-an-hour. And if there has been a bit of clashing and clanging in this particular so-called extent, then I am allowed to draw my own conclusions, even if the conductor thinks he has been clever in bringing this part of the peal into rounds.

Now, I believe that all things that we do will be made known to men as they are now known to God: 'For there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed; neither hid that shall not be known.' A tape-recorder could do this for us in this life and would demonstrate our shortcomings. I reckon God is cleverer than any tape-recorder and that even our faulty ringing is known to Him and is somehow or other being recorded. Like all other people, I have done my share of wrong things in my life, and not all my ringing has been, or is, up to standard. But at least I try to have a concern about standards.

'RINGERS REQUIRED'

Recently the Amateur Film Section of the Brighton Telephone Area Sports and Social Association provided an evening film show at Howe Telephone Exchange with the film 'Ringers Required' as the main feature. The Hurstpierpoint ringers made the arrangements and over 100 programmes were sold in the towers in the northern part of Sussex. The Film Section then agreed to make it a 'Ringers Only' evening as the normal seating maximum is for 100 people.

Briefly, the film portrays the story of how a band of ringers was recruited and trained to ring the bells of a church in Canada. A very pleasant surprise for this particular audience was to see an old friend from Buxted tower, in Sussex, as one of the film stars—none other than Michael Causley, who married Jean Durrant from the nearby tower at Uckfield. Quite probably the handbells used in the film were the set given to this couple by Sussex ringers on the occasion of their marriage prior to their departure to Canada.

One unexpected feature was the tutor in an early scene ringing with his jacket on! Another which brought gasps from experienced members in the audience was the sight of bells in the 'up' position while ringers attended to the clappers!!

Apart from these two points, the film was very typical of the experiences many have had in training a band of ringers. The determination, loyalty and keenness shown by those in the film is inspiring and quite infectious for those in the audience! For instance, the thrill of the trainees ringing together on 'open' bells for the first time, and the exhilarating experience of 'ringing in' the New Year.

Yes, those from 'Sussex by the Sea' recommend all ringers—and potential ringers—to see this film and I have a shrewd suspicion that they will suggest another to be shown with it. H. W. B.

OBITUARY

MR. HERBERT D. LIDBETTER AN APPRECIATION

Herbert D. Lidbetter started ringing at All Saints', Isleworth, Middlesex, in July, 1902, and rang his first peal (Holt's Original) at this church on April 21st, 1905. It was also at this church in 1930 that I met him and I recall the many happy hours spent in his company.

Herbert Lidbetter was an example to all who knew him. Regular in his attendance for service ringing, willing to assist beginners in the art of change ringing and conducting, and a disciplinarian in the belfry, but easy to get on with. His methods and approach were appreciated by all with whom he came in contact.

While not a prolific peal ringer, up to the outbreak of the First World War he had rung over 50.

On removing to Acle, Norfolk, he continued his regular service ringing until January, 1961, when ill-health caused him to give up ringing, although his interest in the Exercise continued to the last. We shall miss his regular attendance at our local meetings. May he rest in peace. H. W. BARRETT.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION Maidstone Branch

The final meeting of 1963 should have been held at East Farleigh, but because of difficulty in arrangements the Vicar of Mereworth kindly allowed us to go there.

Ringing on the rather odd-toned six was under the guidance of the new Ringing Master, Mr. B. F. L. Groves. About 35 people sat down to tea in the Village Hall. There was no business to discuss, but it was reported that arrangements were going ahead with the District party on February 8th at St. Michael's Hall, Maidstone.

The service followed, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. C. W. E. Keene, and included the customary course of Grandsire Triples 'in hand.' Ringing afterwards ranged from Plain Bob to London. T. A. C.

REDEDICATION OF HIGH WYCOMBE BELLS

The bells of High Wycombe Parish Church were rededicated during Evensong on November 10th by the Vicar, the Rev. Eric Hague. Members of the congregation included the Mayor and Mayoress, Town Clerk, members of the local council, Mr. John Hall, M.P., and Mr. Colin Harrison, from John Taylor and Co. Rounds on 12 were rung during the ceremony by the local ringers, and ringing took place after the service until 9 p.m., ringers from several towers in the area being present.

The two trebles have been recast, the other 10 retuned, and all rehung on ball bearings with completely new fittings by Taylors, the cost of this work being borne by the church. A sharp 2nd bell has also been added, giving a light ring of eight: this bell commemorates the visit of the Queen to the town in April last year, and the cost is being met by the ringers: £100 is still required and any donations will be gratefully received by the Vicar.

The tone and 'go' of the bells has been improved considerably, and it is now possible to ring up the tenor (30 cwt.) with the clapper on the right side, single-handed, a task previously impossible, even with three on the rope.

While the bells were away, a sound turret was constructed on the tower roof, and the louvres completely blocked up: unfortunately the sound of the bells is now too muffled in the immediate vicinity of the church, and it is hoped that the P.C.C. will allow the shuttering to be modified so that the 'ring' of the bells can be heard.

The High Wycombe ringers wish to thank those at West Wycombe for the use of their bells for practices during the past six months.

REV. CANON F. J. O. HELMORE

On September 8th, 1927, a 'Frederick' peal by men of Kent and Kentish men was rung at St. Margaret's Church, Rainham, Kent, there being presumably no St. Frederick church available. The method was Stedman Triples conducted by Frederick J. Cullum.

A participant was Canon Helmore, then nearing the end of his 38 years in office as general secretary of the Kent County Association. This proved to be his 209th and last peal although he lived until November 8th, 1938.

On November 8th, 1963, the 25th anniversary of Canon Helmore's death, a peal of Stedman Triples was rung at St. John's, Erith, Kent, again conducted by Fred Cullum. One of the participants was Philip Corby, the present general secretary of the Association.

Am I being fussy about all this? I think not. With you, I like ringing, and I am sure it has many joys for me yet to come. But, being interested in music generally, I am concerned about the standards of ringing. We must constantly try to improve them, and this is not going to be achieved except by hard work and a sensible approach to our practices which have to be in public for all to hear.

Compare our knowledge of method ringing with that at the beginning of the century. We are much cleverer. We know far more about the mathematics of ringing. But does our ringing sound any better? I don't know. But God knows, and when we meet Him it may be revealed to us that our standards of striking are below those He rightly expects from intelligent ringers. You have to be intelligent to be a ringer, so we shall not be able to excuse ourselves and say we don't understand.

Is it too far-fetched to imagine God taking out His super tape-recorder and giving a demonstration to us of our own ringing, and saying to us: 'Do you really think that striking was good enough? I don't. You should have practised more carefully in public.'?

GUILD OF MEDICAL RINGERS

The annual London meeting of the Guild took place in the City on November 16th. Ringing began a little before 3 o'clock at St. Vedast's, Foster Lane, and continued later at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, and St. Giles', Cripplegate. There was a good attendance of members and guests, and the ringing was much enjoyed.

Following ringing at St. Giles', the annual general meeting took place. The retiring president, Mr. W. R. Winterton, first of all welcomed Mr. Jack Phillips who had been elected Master of the College Youths a few days earlier. The Guild was fortunate to be the first body to receive the new Master after his election. Mr. Winterton then said that it was his intention not to stand for re-election, and proposed the name of Dr. G. Roworth as his successor: this was carried unanimously. The remaining two officers, Dr. D. J. Neal Smith, Master, and Dr. D. L. Gullick, secretary, were elected.

After discussion of plans for 1964 the meeting concluded with votes of thanks to the retiring president and to all who had made the meeting and ringing such a success.

Before adjourning to continue informal discussion over dinner, a 'doctors' only' course of Stedman was rung on the back eight by the following: G. Roworth, D. L. Gullick, J. Armstrong, L. S. Castleden, D. G. Hollis, W. R. Winterton, P. A. F. Chalk and D. J. Neal Smith. D. L. G.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Devizes Branch

After two disappointments, caused by the severe weather in the early part of this year, the Devizes Branch was at last able to meet at Hilpertown on November 2nd, and a very pleasant meeting it proved to be.

Thirty-five people attended the service, which was conducted by the Rector (Rev. R. C. H. Corbin). By his choice of hymns and excellent address he drew the attention of the congregation from the usual ringers' service to the importance of the Festival of All Saints. Mr. R. Hunt was the organist.

Afterwards a splendid tea was provided in the Vicarage by the Hilpertown ringers. The Branch chairman (Mr. N. Knee) expressed thanks to all who had helped to make the meeting such a success. The light, merry sounding six were kept busy during the afternoon and evening with rounds and touches up to Cambridge Minor. A. K.

BARNSELY DISTRICT SOCIETY

Twelve towers were represented at the Barnsley and District Society's meeting at Conisbrough on November 9th. The Vicar (Rev. G. E. Braithwaite) presided at the short business meeting, when Earlsheaton was selected for the next meeting on December 14th. The vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Fred Jackson, Bawtry.

EAST GRINSTEAD & DISTRICT GUILD

The Guild journeyed to Horsham (8) on November 9th for their monthly meeting, and after ringing a variety of methods and meeting members of the Horsham band enjoyed a short service, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Matthews, who welcomed them to Horsham and complimented them on their singing during the service.

After tea a business meeting was held in the belfry, with 38 members and friends attending. Eight new members were elected and made welcome by the chairman, and a grant of five guineas was made towards an appeal by Speldhurst for new bell ropes. The chairman reminded members that the dinner tickets were now ready for sale, and urged them to see that they had their names taken by the secretary, as there were only a few left.

CAMPANOLOGICS—ART OR SCIENCE

By A. S. HUDSON

During the past few months there has been considerable research into the Surprise Major methods, using electronic computers. The results of these analyses are to be published in the near future, and it is hoped that the following discussion may stimulate thought concerning the application of computing to the various theoretical branches of change-ringing.

CHANGE ringing has always been an essentially logical art, although as it was developed the art gradually became more and more chaotic. It is difficult to draw a distinction between the art and the science of ringing, even if such a distinction be desirable. While the fundamentals are concerned with the production of changes, which is purely and simply an exercise in logical thought, there exists an infinite capacity for individual genius to get to work on the problem of arranging changes in a pleasing and musical manner. In the early stages of change ringing the methods evolved were mainly those which today would be regarded as 'irregular'; very few of these are still practised—Grandsire is an example of one which has survived, although one feels tempted to wonder why this should be so.

In attempting to produce order out of chaos, the Central Council has set out a series of rules governing which methods may be regarded as 'regular,' and the Exercise is encouraged to practise only those which fall into this category, although there is no embargo on irregular ones except in record peals. The regular methods have been selected both for convenience and also to limit the choice of available methods, which is in itself a more or less essential step.

Having arrived at a universally agreed set of rules governing what we may ring, we are faced with the problem of finding all the methods and fitting compositions to them. Let us consider separately the generation of methods and the derivation of compositions.

TWO BASIC RULES

The two basic rules regarding acceptable methods are (1) that the plain course must be true, and (2) that no bell may remain in the same place for more than two successive blows, forming a clear distinction from many methods practised of old. All that remains is to discover which of the methods obeying rules 1 and 2 produce Plain Bob lead ends. The problem now resolves itself into a tiresome and protracted labour of love.

It is at this stage that I want to introduce the discussion of the place of electronic computing in the art and science of change ringing. We have decided that there is no special art in the derivation of acceptable methods, it is merely a matter of plodding through every possibility and determining whether or not they conform to the rules. Such an operation is ideally suited to the computer, but not to the human brain. It has been suggested that genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains: If this is so, then I would suggest that there is more genius in a room of computers than in any collection of humans, however brilliant. The computer is not capable at present of producing any original thought, whereas the human brain is not distinguished for its capacity for taking pains. Thus it would seem that the computer provides an excellent labour saving device.

Let us compare the time required to evaluate a possible method in order to see whether it gives a Plain Bob lead end. Working quickly, one might produce one result per minute by hand, or sixty methods to the hour. The labour that follows in order to check the work is enormous. Even the slower computers these days will check about one method per second, that is, several thousand an hour, and the faster ones can achieve ten or a hundred times this speed. In addition to this time saving factor, there is the advantage that the computer seldom makes a trivial mistake: if it does make any trip, complete nonsense results, and therefore once a programme is working properly it is not necessary to undertake any further checking.

The most striking objection to the use of computers for this type of work is the prohibitive cost, coupled with the fact that not many people are in a position to get access to a machine, or to persuade an obliging maths department to allow the programmes to be run. In fact, there is not so much of a problem here as might at first be expected: it can be relatively easy to get short periods of machine time for ringing problems, since the authorities are sometimes remarkably interested in such problems.

There are further difficulties to be considered in the work of method derivation: so far we have not considered the falseness of the methods. A collection of a large number of methods is virtually useless unless some analysis of the falseness is provided. This analysis proves to be quite simple on the computer: the approach is in fact completely different from that which one would employ if one were working it out by hand. Falseness considerations bring us naturally on to the second type of analysis mentioned above: that is, the derivation of compositions. This immediately raises several philosophical questions.

END OF INDIVIDUAL GENIUS?

First of all, is there any art in composition? Without any doubt there is. The scope for including musical qualities is enormous, although this is sometimes severely limited by the falseness of the method, and the intricacies of working out a composition for the very false methods are manifold. The question is not so much — could one produce compositions suited to the music peculiar to any given method by computer means? — but rather—is it desirable to remove the scope for individual genius to flourish in the realm of inspired composition? It must surely be a retrograde step for compositions to be produced mechanically on a large scale. It would be perfectly possible to derive compositions for every known method, but it would take a prohibitive amount of time, and the volume of tabulation would be enormous. The Exercise would then lose the variety inherent in the work of individual composers, which would be most undesirable. Fortunately, none of these objections apply to the generation of methods.

Nevertheless, there are objections of a different variety to the derivation of methods en masse. Several points of view have been expressed in letters recently, and so I will try to give a summary of them here. The first objection is that the quality of a method is very variable. If a complete collection of, say, major methods, is published, then a vast number of methods, some of which are of doubtful quality, are showered upon the Exercise. Clearly it is a matter of opinion whether a method is worth ringing, but it is widely agreed that methods which are dynamic, in that the bells do not stagnate in one place for long periods, are superior to the more stagnant ones. The second objection is that some of the methods are hopelessly false and therefore could not be rung to peals. There are objections to the publication of falseness for methods, on the grounds that some of the Exercise is not capable of understanding all that is implied in an analysis of falseness, and thus many false peals would be rung.

On the first count, I consider that there is not only a place, but a definite need in the Exercise for complete collections. We have suffered for too long from incomplete information about which methods have been rung, which compositions will go to them, what their falseness is, and so on. We have to accept the possibly biased judgments of committees as to what type of method conforms to the precepts of 'good taste.' A case in point is the recent collection of Minor methods, which although being an extremely good piece of work in many ways, and probably the best collection that the Central Council has yet produced, contains a considerable number of Little and Alliance methods, but NO Single change methods. That the former are included is just as it should be, even if some would criticise the value or appeal of such methods, but that the latter are excluded is lamentable. On the second count, surely the Exercise is intelligent enough to be able to use properly an explicit analysis of incidence of falseness? Those who are likely to construct a composition are perfectly capable of using falseness tables correctly, while those who do not understand them are not very likely to select or compose their own compositions.

In conclusion, I will restate the points I have tried to make. There appears to be a firm place for computer applications in the science of change ringing, so long as it does not interfere with the scope for individual talent or genius in the art. There is plenty of work that the computer can do far more accurately and quickly than we can. The results from analyses of the type discussed above should be of lasting value to the Exercise.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE INVADED

On October 19th a strong and determined force of men (and women) from the Silsoe district of Bedfordshire carried out a highly successful raid on the neighbouring county of Northants. Two mechanised columns, led by D. Brazier and C. Mann, penetrated the enemy territory as far as Gayton, with practically no opposition from the natives.

Surprise tactics were used with great success and words like 'London,' 'Norwich' and 'Cambridge' were freely exchanged, presumably to confound the local inhabitants, and not infrequently the insurgents themselves were confused!

After their early success at Gayton, the raiders pressed on to the peaceful village of Green's Norton, and the independent observer felt that a place of such surpassing beauty might have been spared, but the loud ringing of bells (the marauders' normal method of announcing their arrival) soon made it known that the invaders were in occupation.

The conquest of places like Easton Neston, Towcester, Paulerspury, Potterspury and Cosgrove followed in rapid succession, without a shot (or even a ring of bells) being fired. The entire exercise was carried out with such speed and precision that no injury to personnel or damage to property was reported, though, intoxicated by success, the invaders made raids on catering establishments and hostels, but in all cases peaceful negotiations proved effective. The organisers would like, through the 'neutral channel' of 'The Ringing World,' to express their warm appreciation of the very valuable fifth column work of Frank Eyden, and also the co-operation of local clergy and other non-combatants!

Letters to the Editor

In Defence of Yorkshire Six-bell Ringers

Dear Sir,—I think my old friend, Mr. Chris Woolley, must have had his tongue in his cheek when he wrote to you propounding his weird and wonderful theory on how the six-bell ringers of the latter part of the last century came to ring their peals of 14 half-extents.

Surely he doesn't expect anyone to believe that those ringers learned fourteen different methods just to make it easy for a conductor not capable of calling a 720, or that they would care two hoots whether the tenors were parted or not. The more likely explanation is that they wished to progress beyond ringing peals in seven methods only, which they had already accomplished, and in which, incidentally, the conductor had had to call the full extent in each method.

Quite naturally they did not want to ring a 10.080 to cover the fourteen methods, which they would have had to do had Dr. Carpenter had his way. I think I prefer Mr. Moxon's description of Dr. Carpenter's suggestion as fatuous to Mr. Woolley's naive; for it was silly rather than unsophisticated.

Whenever the controversy which raged over what should, or should not, constitute a peal of Minor is mentioned, the Yorkshire six-bell ringers are regarded as the villains of the play. They are considered to have been the chief offenders. Yet, from the time the Yorkshire Association was formed in 1875 up to 1896, when matters really came to a head, of the 116 peals of Minor rung by the Association only six were half-extents of fourteen methods, and those six were rung in different towers by different bands.

The chief protagonist of the Yorkshire six-bell ringers was George Bolland, of Tong, a very able ringer and conductor, whom I knew well. He fought on principle and not because he had any particular desire to ring the disputed type of peal in fact he rang (and called) only one of those peals.

He objected to the six-bell ringers being dictated to, on what they should or should not ring, by people who were not primarily six-bell ringers and he was supported by most, if not all, of his Minor brethren in Yorkshire.

In June, 1895, George Bolland proposed that the Yorkshire Association should withdraw from the Central Council, but discussion on that proposition was deferred until a meeting held at Rawmarsh on February 8th, 1896, where, although George had the sympathy of the meeting, his motion was not carried.

Mr. Woolley, in his letter, states that in the debate at the Central Council meeting, Dr. Carpenter was on the winning side. Perhaps it was, but was it such a victory? Someone on the Central Council must have felt uneasy because the following annual meeting of the Yorkshire Association, held at Leeds on January 16th, 1897, saw no less a person there than the president of the Central Council, Mr. A. Percival Heywood (afterwards Sir Arthur), who came to 'appeal strongly for the Association's support in the work the Council had before it, adding that he had great hopes that some compromise on the six-bell question might be reached.' What the compromise was (if any) I do not know, but the Yorkshire six-bell ringers showed their independence and their utter disregard of the dictatorialness of those, who, in their opinion, were not qualified to dictate, by continuing to ring peals of 14 half-extents with increased vigour. In 21 years before the dispute they had rung six such peals; they rang three in the three years that followed!

In order to dispel any misunderstanding there might be of George Bolland, I would state, from personal knowledge and experience, that he was a very likable man, a gentleman in every sense of the word. He was a man of high principles and though he was, at times, somewhat fierce in debates he had a kind and genial nature. He was often referred to as the 'king of six-bell ringers,' but his ringing was by no means confined to Minor. He was not a six-bell bigot.

Up to the time when Mr. Heywood went to the Leeds meeting George had rung 57 peals, 23 of which he conducted. Only 19 of the 57 were Minor; 37 were Major; and one Royal. Shortly afterwards he rang in the first peal of Surprise Major by the Yorkshire Association.

George Bolland was a member of the Central Council for almost thirty years. When he championed the causes of six-bell ringers he did it, not just for the Minor ringers of Yorkshire, but for those of the whole Exercise. —Yours faithfully, Pudsey, Yorks. WILLIAM BARTON.

Tunes on Handbells

Dear Sir,—May I support others who have asked for articles on tune ringing on handbells. As one who has dabbled in this activity (albeit on a limited scale due to pressure of other ringing activities), I would suggest that the provision of suitable music scores is most needed.

For those intending to go far with tune ringing I recommend getting used to music written in staff notation. Many piano scores may be broken down and adapted, particularly if one has a good range of bells (two or more octaves).

Many tunes in keys other than C will be found to have no sharps or flats when transcribed to the key of C, thus a set of bells in the diatonic scale (no sharps or flats) can be used for a wide range of tunes.

It does not matter what key one's handbells are in. To play a tune in key of C on handbells in key of G (lowest note), call G note C, A note D, B note E, C note F, D note G, E note A, F sharp note B, top G note C, etc. The tune is thus automatically transcribed from one key to another.—Yours etc.,
N. CHADDOCK.

Congratulations to other Margaret

Dear Sir,—May I, through your columns, greet my namesake who rang her first peal at Ormesby, Yorks, on October last.

This afternoon I was greeted with various witticism from people with whom I have stood in peals and who thought the asterisk for 'First peal' was an error.

Congratulations, Margaret. My first was only Bob Minor.—Yours faithfully, MARGARET WILKINSON.

Notices of Meetings

Dear Sir,—May I please suggest to District secretaries and others responsible for organising ringing meetings that longer notice is given of such meetings when advertising in 'The Ringing World'.

I have seen notices which apparently give only one week in which to make arrangements and give notice of attendance.

I consider that a minimum of two weeks' notice should be given when advertising meetings.—Yours faithfully,
A. S. PHELIPS.

Mr. R. G. Leale's North Wales Tour

Dear Sir,—May I congratulate Mr. W. Cathrall and the North Wales Association on their adherence to the Association Rules, and hope that more Associations and Guilds take the same attitude.

Mr. Cathrall has exposed a grave weakness in the matter of tours and peal ringing generally. At present it would appear that any party can decide to tour a county or diocese, ring a number of peals and say 'credited to so and so Association or Guild,' and unless the tower captain is at hand to insist upon subscriptions being paid to a particular Association or Guild, and if the Association or Guild does not object, that is the end of that. The situation is anomalous in two respects mainly, therefore:

(a) As the result of a tour a quiet Association or Guild finds at the end of a year it has credited to it several peals of Surprise Major, Triples and so on; its past record having been an average of one, or at most two per year, of Grandsire Doubles.

(b) It can be argued that extreme discourtesy has been shown to an Association or Guild which has not been forewarned of an approaching tour and peal attempts.

Permission to ring from an incumbent is always necessary; peal crediting should receive the same treatment, therefore.

In the case of Mr. R. G. Leale's tour it can be pointed out that Llanbadarn Fawr is not in North Wales, it is in South Wales. (The border is crossed a quarter-of-a-mile north of Glandyfi.) St. Padarn's bells come within the Diocese of St. David's, and the ringers there are members of St. David's Diocesan Guild of Bellringers.

Whoever, therefore, organised Mr. Leale's tour forgot his map, his geography—and his etiquette!—Yours faithfully,

ROBERT PATEMAN (Maj.)

Guernsey Bells

Dear Sir,—Church guide books often give very odd information about bells, and that at St. Peter-in-the-Wood, Guernsey, is no exception. The treble is not dated 1654, nor anything else, nor was she cast in France, as were the other two; she is a very nice mediæval bell from the Exeter foundry, dating from about 1520. There are coins in the crown—not accurately datable, but early Tudor so the British Museum tells me—and the initial cross is one found at Payhembury and Stoke Abbot.

The bells hang in a massive old frame of very odd design, and have half-wheels. They were put on ball bearings in 1955, as Mr. Cawley says, by the well known French firm of Mears et Stainbank, of Rue de la Chapelle Blanche, E.1. and the work was done by that celebrated denizen of the Montparnasse bistros, Monsieur Guillaume Theobald.—Yours, etc., (Rev.) JOHN G. M. SCOTT.

Tip for Outing Organisers

Dear Sir,—Might I suggest to those who have the task of arranging outings, etc., to other towers, that in writing to secretaries given in association annual reports, the envelopes be endorsed 'For ringing at . . . or something to that effect'.

Quite often the secretaryship has changed hands and the previous secretary may be residing many miles away, possibly overseas, and considerable delay could, in fact do, arise causing inconvenience and, no doubt, irritation.—Yours sincerely,

RONALD A. BERRY.

A SOMERSET RING REVIVED

THE village of Cothelstone, with its scattered houses and farms, nestles under the Western Quantock slopes of the Vale of Taunton Deane. From the hill road, passing steeply downwards between avenues of gnarled beeches, one of the finest panoramas of all Somerset unfolds. On the afternoon of October 26th the scene was set in all the glory of autumn, with the russet tinges of tree and hedgerow blazing brilliantly over the dark greens of mossy banks and fields of kaye. The red sandstone Church of St. Thomas of Canterbury, approached by a track through the same arched gateway from which the notorious Judge Jeffreys had two rebels hanged, stood nobly in the weak sunshine. Of the village folk, probably only the Vicar in his home overlooking the vale sensed that the country peacefulness would soon be aroused by the rippling, swelling notes of bells being raised 'in full peal.'

Such an occasion has indeed been rare in Cothelstone's past, as for many years the tenor (a 20 cwt. bell by Mears, 1863) has been virtually unringable. The reason is attributed to the badly designed frame installed by Harry Stokes, of Woodbury, Devon, in 1904. The second occupies a small upper deck and, with the five other bells in the lower deck, the tower dimensions were only sufficient to allow for one end beam, at bearing level, in the tenor pit. Consequently the corner posts, at the frame end adjacent to the tower wells, were carried on upwards above wheel level, and here mortised into a beam extending from the upper frame-work. This has proved to be a very unstable structure and one wonders just how long it took for the motion of the bells and the seasoning of the timber, hastened by gale-lashed winter rain cascading through the unloosed tower openings, to warp the frame-work until eventually the tenor gudgeons became severely clamped. Swing chiming remained just possible and in this way the tenor has been sounded alone as service bell for years past.

One summer evening in 1949 this lack of ringing was broken by ringers from the Taunton and Wellington areas, who spliced a second tail on to the tenor rope so that the bell could be double-manned. Later, on Easter Monday, 1956, they again rang all six bells; the tenor pit being temporarily jacked open so that the bell could swing more easily. On both occasions a crowd of ringers worthy of a quarterly meeting gathered. More recently, a quarter peal was rung on the front five by a band from Spaxton.

Encouraged by memories of these successes, ringers from the Bridgwater area decided last year to attempt a permanent repair. The Vicar was consulted and his ready co-operation and interest spurred us on. The frame was again jacked apart and now a spacing beam was firmly secured between the uprights, just beyond reach of the tip of the stay. Liberal quantities of oil were used to flush out the bearings and a preliminary test was made. 'Go' was hard, but certainly possible and it was decided that a 'running in' period of service chiming would be beneficial, since the bearings had probably twisted slightly as the frame was forced apart. Years of chiming had also scored a deep groove in the rope guide whence the rope would suddenly lodge, with disastrous results. This guide was repaired and, at the Vicar's invitation, we rang for morning service on Sunday, May 26th—the first service ringing on all six since the war!

After two unsuccessful quarter peal attempts three time proved lucky on October 26th, when, with the aid of oil drip feeders, kindly lent by Mr. George Burge, the tenor was finally turned in to a quarter peal of Cambridge Minor. Mike Stone, our 'tenor king,' was heartily congratulated on this achievement.

The bells themselves are quite an interesting assortment, the inscriptions being:

Treble—AN · NO · DO · MI · NI · 1632, R. P.

Second—G. MEARS AND CO. FOUNDERS, LONDON, 1863.

Third—JOHN LORD STAWEL, I.P., M.B., 1689.

Fourth—MEARS AND STAINBANK, FOUNDERS, LONDON, PRO DEO ET REGINA, 1897. M. CAMLIN, I. GIBBS, CHURCHWARDENS, CAST BY T. KINGSTON, 1808.

Fifth—PEACE, HEALTH AND PLENTY TO THIS NEIGHBOURHOOD, B. AND S., 1752.

Tenor—G. MEARS AND CO., FOUNDERS, LONDON, 1863.

The inscription on the third and the coat of arms on the waist are badly worn, and the inscription is taken from Ellacombe's 'Church Bells of Somerset.'

It is sincerely hoped that, due to our activities and efforts in the past few weeks, sufficient interest may have been created for a 'home team' to be taught. The idea has already been discussed with the Vicar, so it may well be that before long Cothelstone bells will once more echo the Sunday callings of their neighbouring towers out across the Deane to the distant Brendon Hills.

G. MARCHANT.

TRYING WILTSHIRE TOWERS 'A Day's Hard'

Bells not often heard were included in a visit to 14 South Wiltshire towers by nine keen ringers, including John C. Sawtell and Kingsley C. Jones. This account of the day, which took place on August 24th, they suggest should be called 'A day's hard.'

A start was made at Corsley, and on the 14 cwt. 'six' the standard of the day's ringing was set, with methods up to Cambridge. The sequence of towers was Horningsham, Maiden Bradley, Stourton to Mere, where the 23 cwt. eight were tidily hung in a metal frame by Llewellyn and James, of Bristol, some 50 years ago, and in spite of plain bearings provided good ringing and music.

A brief excursion was made into Dorset to ring at Motcombe (6. 8 cwt.), an easy-going ring by Warners, of the last century. The left-handed six at East Knoyle was followed by the heaviest six in the county at Semley, a ring the party was unable to take full advantage of. A broken treble rope was replaced at Donhead St. Mary before the Salisbury Guild practice meeting. Tisbury bells, that had not been rung for some years, were a fine ring, hung on two levels by Gillett and Johnston. Fovant bells were unringable as, like Zeals, the tower is unsafe.

After tea came Wylve (some also visited Boyton), Codford St. Peter and finally All Saints', Chitterne, rehung by Mears and Stainbank only last year and deserving of a regular band, which they lack.

WITH EAST DEVON RINGERS

A very wet start was made on November 2nd in the trip to Wiltshire, well organised by Charles and Colin Turner (Ottery St. Mary). With support from Sidmouth and Sidbury, a punctual start was made on the heavy eight at Frome, where we were pleasantly surprised to be joined by Reg Woodley and his wife, John Manley made the long journey from Newport (Mon) to be with us, so we were well blessed with conductors. Some well struck Grandshire and Stedman Triples were brought round here by Colin Turner.

Over the border into Wilts, a short stop for lunch ('in hand') at Melksham, and we pressed on to Swindon All Saints'. A course of Grandshire Caters was brought through by Cyril Deem, but, alas, subsequent touches did not do justice to this excellent 10.

Returning to Wootton Bassett we were met by that stalwart 'Otter' Louis Wilson. Denying his eighty odd years, we were pleased to have him join us in some good Stedman Triples, ably conducted by Reg Woodley. Louis was delighted to ring again with young George Betts, as they had not met for nearly 30 years.

Somewhat regretfully we set off for Warminster, where the mellow eight were soon going well to Kent Major, with Charles Turner in charge. John Manley was also successful with Plain Bob. Some 30 miles nearer home our last call was the lovely ring at Crewkerne where, after several methods came back into rounds, our ringing was brought to an end, with a well struck touch of Oxford Bob Triples.

Our thanks are due to the organisers, incumbents and those who met us so promptly at the towers.

KIPPIN'S HEREFORDSHIRE TOUR

ON Saturday, August 31st, two cars left Southampton bound for the small but famous village of Eardisland, carrying Carolyn Vibet, John Faithfull, Maurice Butler, Michael Thomas, Chris Kippin and David House. After a brief halt at Andover, to pick up Hilary Kippin and Peter Joyce, our path led to Purton, Wilts. Here numbers were further increased by Brian Bladon, Ron Marlow and Raymond Haines. London and Cambridge were rung on the fine six before we hurried on to Cheltenham to meet Louise Taylor and have lunch. Our first effort on eight at Ruardean, Glos, included Bristol and five-spliced, the party being strengthened by the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kippin. After the sixes at Goodrich, Llangarren and St. Weonards another meal was disposed of in Hereford. At the White Swan, Eardisland, we were warmly welcomed by Leslie Evans. The arrival of Frances Rickard and Tony Davidson from Truro completed the party.

On Sunday morning we were awakened to the sound of a tape-recording of Eardisland bells, thoughtfully put on by the landlord. In the ringing for Sung Eucharist we were joined by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Oatway, of Leatherhead, who spent the week-end with us. We were welcomed by the Vicar at the beginning of his sermon and two were even pressed to sing in the choir. Afternoon ringing was at Eye, Kimbolton, Kingsland and Wigmore, and ringing for Evensong at Ludlow. Here we were glad to welcome Kay Moore, of Lichfield.

THE GRAB BEGINS

On Monday the grabbing began in earnest. From the good eight at Ledbury we went on to Eastnor (6) and Colwall (8). Next came Coddington (6) and the beautiful eight at Malvern Link. After Mathon (6) and Cradley (6) a break was made for tea. Unfortunately time was limited on the pleasant ten at Leominster. After a brief touch of Grandsire Caters, an excellent course of London Royal was tapped round. Back at the hotel a pleasant evening was spent.

A start was made at Burghill (8) on Tuesday, followed by Pipe and Lyde (6), Lugwardine (8), where a request for Quedgeley was acceded to, and then the first five of the tour, Weston Beggard, where New Bob was the highlight. The noble six at Withington were greatly admired, but the next six, Sutton St. Nicholas, provided a contrast in every way. Two more heavy sixes followed—Marden and Wellington. The last tower of the day was Bodenheim, a good Gillett and Johnston six. Tuesday night was a rowdy one, and two of the martyrs who had kindly volunteered to sleep at the cafe across the road were evicted—a tragic event! However, they managed to put up with the hotel for the rest of the week.

Wednesday took us to Leintwardine (8), Clun (6) and Clunbury (8). Knighton (8 bells) was our first tower in Wales, and after lunch we rang on the other eight in Radnorshire, Presteigne. The sixes at New and Old Radnor followed, and after a much-enjoyed meal of faggots, chips and peas at Leominster, a visit was made to the five at Stoke Prior. Here we were joined by the Rev. Arthur Roberts, of Carbis Bay, who was looking after the parish during his holiday. At the end of our ringing here, the total of changes rung was 19,843; unfortunately the record was not kept up till the end of the tour.

YORKSHIRE PEAL LOST

At breakfast on Thursday a knock on the window heralded the arrival of Don and Kay Exell, who joined us for the rest of the tour. Eight of the company attempted a peal of Yorkshire at Eardisland, which was lost after an unfortunate understanding after an hour's good ringing. The rest of the party rang at Dilwyn (6), Weobley (6) and Norton Canon (5). After the party had been reunited ringing followed at Staunton-on-Wye (6) and Holmer (6). The afternoon was spent in Hereford. Ringing at the Cathedral included Yorkshire and London Royal, but those listening outside enjoyed it most. Other towers visited were All Saints' (8), St. Nicholas' (6) and Aymes-try (6).

On Friday morning we left our organiser and his girl-friend standing outside the hotel, but his absence was noted at the first tower, Hampton Bishop (6), and a car was sent back for him. Holme Lacey's eight were not greatly admired, the fourth being cracked, but Much Dewchurch's six were pleasant. The eight at Ross-on-Wye were enjoyed by all. Alas! Kings Cople's six were the worst of the tour. We went on to Fownhope (6) and Woolhope (6). Here the church was closed for repair, and on arriving home we found a letter withdrawing permission to ring. The evening was spent at Eardisland practice night, where we were joined by another touring band from Sussex.

On arrival at Glasbury-on-Wye on Saturday we found we were unable to ring. Our thanks are due to Colin Lewis for arranging ringing at Talgarth (6), so we still managed to ring in seven counties. After the five at Clyro, we went to Clifford (8), where a good course of Glasgow and a touch of eight-spliced were rung. Ringing went on at Whitney (5), Eardisley (6), Almeley (6), Kington (6) and Lyons-hall (6), then finally on the justly famous five at Pembridge.

The second annual meeting of the party, fondly called 'Kippin's Kreeps', was held in the public bar of the hotel, and after the election of new members the venue for 1964 was chosen—Derbyshire. A small presentation was made to Chris in appreciation of a great deal of hard work.

On Sunday morning, after farewells had been said to Charles, Jessie and Hilary Kippin and Peter Joyce, we rang for the last time at Eardisland, and, at Matins, criticised Chris at the organ. Afternoon ringing was at Upton Bishop (6), Linton (6) and Aston Ingham (6), then, after a stop at Gloucester, we reached Swindon in time to ring a course of Cambridge Royal at Christ Church, a fitting end to a wonderful tour.

Three Surprise Royal methods were rung, 10 Surprise Major, as well as five, six and eight spliced and 12 Surprise Minor methods as well as all the usual plain methods.

OUTINGS

LITTLE ASTON

Although the date for the annual outing was later than usual, Little Aston ringers and friends were favoured with a fine day for their visit to the Cotswolds on October 26th. Bishop's Cleeve, the first tower, proved to have a very pleasant ring of eight, where the local captain joined in a touch of Stedman. Next was the fine Norman church of Elkstone, and New Bob was accomplished on the easy-going five. A hurried sandwich lunch was eaten on the way to Rendcomb (a ground floor ring of six). The bells were difficult to hear (especially while our Vicar was playing the organ!), but London was managed without too much difficulty. Some good fast ringing was enjoyed on the light six at North Cerney (a saddle-back tower), before going to Lechlade, our heaviest ring of the day. By this time we were ready for tea at Bourton-on-the-Water, which was followed by a visit to the famous model village, and then a ring on the excellent eight. Bristol was achieved here and Lincolnshire brought the day's ringing to a close.

Our grateful thanks to Mike for the arrangements and those who made it possible for us to ring.

K. M.

BALDOCK, HERTS

Arranged by Mr. E. G. Buck, Baldock ringers and friends had an enjoyable half day outing on October 12th into Essex. Ringing started on the fairly light octave at St. John the Baptist, Woodford, and after a break for tea on the heavy bells of St. Margaret's, Barking. A long drive brought us to Stanford-le-Hope, where the bells are of very good tone, and finally Brentwood for the best ringing of the day on bells that pleased us immensely. Thanks to all who contributed to such an enjoyable outing.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

Northern District

Reporting on the Association committee meeting to the quarterly meeting of the Northern District, held at Felsted on November 16th, the District Ringing Master said he hoped they would consider an addition to the title of the Association incorporating the words 'Chelmsford Diocese' like 'The Essex Association and Chelmsford Diocesan Guild.' This was to enable towers transferred from Essex to London under the Greater London Act to maintain their connection with the Association.

It was agreed that the annual District meeting would be more central if held at Braintree, Bocking, Halstead and Coggeshall in rotation.

A letter was received from Kelvedon, inviting the District to hold its annual meeting at Kelvedon on the same day as the rededication of the bells. The meeting, in thanking Kelvedon, thought it would be if a separate date was arranged. Dunmow also invited the District, but it was thought it would be better to visit this tower in the early spring. Finally, it was agreed to hold the annual meeting at Coggeshall on January 11th.

The Master closed the meeting with thanks to the Vicar (the Rev. L. J. Vick) for conducting the service and his welcome, to Peter Wood for playing the organ and to all who had helped to make the meeting a success. Ringing, which ranged from call changes to London Surprise, continued until 8 p.m.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

N.W. Branch

The Rev. J. G. M. Scott, Vicar of Clawton and chairman of the Branch, preached at the annual meeting of the N.W. Branch, held at Bradworthy on November 9th. The Vicar (Rev. A. Proctor) conducted the service, which was attended by about 35 members and ringing friends from Coombe Martin, Westleigh, Lamerton and Plymouth. The president, Preb. J. H. B. Andrews, was also present.

Local ladies provided a marvellous tea, and this was followed by the business meeting, at which the present officers were re-elected, viz.: Chairman, Rev. J. G. M. Scott; secretary and treasurer, R. G. Pearce; Ringing Master, C. Sangwin; General Committee: R. C. Callocott, H. Stacey and W. H. R. Smale. Next year's meetings will be at Bideford and Northam, July 25th, and Clawton, November 14th. (Will other secretaries, please note!) Good wishes for a speedy recovery were expressed to Mr. Tom Myers, who is in hospital.

Ringling consisted of Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob and Kent T.B. with rounds and call changes for beginners. Lutcombe and Hols-worth towers were also visited during the evening.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Newark District

Sutton-on-Trent has a high reputation for hospitality and this was surely proved by the large number of members and visitors who attended the meeting there on November 16th.

The eight bells were rung during the afternoon and well into the evening to a wide variety of methods, including Surprise Major and Erin Triples, and there was very little need for rounds only, as most of the learners present had progressed to elementary change ringing. During the afternoon a small party visited the church of the Holy Rood, Ossington (6).

A sumptuous tea was prepared in the Church Hall by lady ringers and helpers, and this was preceded by a shortened Evensong, conducted by Canon R. T. Keal. At the business meeting, the District chairman welcomed visitors from the Bingham, Mansfield and Nottingham Districts, and gave a warm vote of thanks to all who had made the meeting such a success.

Next meeting: District annual, Newark, January 18th.

For over 50 years the Cambridge University Guild attempted a peal of Stedman on handbells, but without success. Various bands tried to score such a peal, including
E. H. Lewis and the Revs. H. L. and E. B.
James, and, in more recent years, bands of non-residents have made regular attempts. On Friday, November 15th, Stedman Caters was rung at their first attempt by a band of resident members.

Prittlewell ringers raised £31 10s. towards new lighting in the tower by a rummage sale held on November 2nd.

The Editor acknowledges annual reports of the Chester and Salisbury Diocesan Guilds.
These reports are most useful in tracing people.

The peal rung at Blewbury on November
9th (see page 787) was for the Oxford
Diocesan Guild.

Mr. R. Rainford, who has completed 56 years ringing at Lancaster R.C. Cathedral, was honoured by friends ringing a quarter of Bristol Surprise Major at Scorton on November 3rd.

Mr. W. F. Moreton writes: The method
'Banbury,' rung in the peal at Rotherham on November 9th, is down in Corrigan's Royal Collection as 'Daventry,' but it is not an acceptable extension of Daventry Major and so has been renamed.

By ringing the tenor to a peal of Bon
Major at Chobham on November 16th, Mr.
D. G. Blows completes the circle in eight peals, and none lost! A straight eight. The band would like to congratulate Mr. and Mrs.
E. J. Wells on the birth of a son, and the Vicar on the birth of his first granddaughter.

Probably other readers have experienced the same difficulty as Mr. A. S. Phelps, of Littlestone, Kent, who writes that while on holiday he had the greatest difficulty in finding details of bells and ringing times from many churches.
The only exception was Sidmouth: here, on the main church notice board was a coloured drawing of a bell, together with number of bells, weight of tenor and ringing times on Sundays and practice nights.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Ringers at St. Marv's,
Rickmansworth, have a dismal prospect ahead of them.
Last week the sixth bell became badly cracked during practice. The Church Council express little hope that any money will be available within the next few years for re-casting. They also state that they will not give the ringers permission to obtain the money themselves. There will be no further ringing until the situation improves.

In the peal at Checkendon on November 2nd (page 772), it was Barry J. Davies who rang his 50th peal, and not as shown.

For his 100th peal, Mr. A. William Bird rang the same bell at Wrentham, Suffolk, on which he rang his first peal. Mr. Charles Bailey took part in both peals.

A small stone from a piece of jewellery was found recently in the belfry of St. Clement Danes' Church. It will be returned to the owner on application to Mr. E. A. Barnett.

On October 29th five Scouts who had been taught to ring at North Weald, Essex, were examined by Mr. D. Riley and all passed for their certificate to wear the bellringer's badge.

The Essex Association is contemplating a change of name to incorporate the words
'Chelmsford Diocese.' The reason is to maintain connection with towers in the London area which will not be in Essex.

The peal at Burley, Leeds, on November 16th, was rung by members and friends of the Leeds University Union Campanological
Society to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the Society's first peal and as a birthday compliment to Professor H. Irving.

The annual 'Bellringers' Sunday' at St.
Mary's, Silsby, Leicestershire, on November 17th, proved to be a very busy day for the ringers. Besides the normal service ringing, a handbell peal was rung in the belfry during the afternoon and a quarter peal on the tower bells prior to the evening service. Both morning and evening services included hymn tunes rung on the handbells, four members of the team being only 12 or 13 years old. Many of the congregation took the opportunity to see the ringers at work as they rang for half an hour after Evensong.
